4/378 Marlborough Road Bronte Park TAS

3 1 1

This charming weatherboard cottage set in the old hydro village at Bronte Park is the perfect retreat. Bronte Park, the geographical centre of Tasmania was first established in the late 1940's to support the Hydro-electric scheme in Tasmania's Central Highlands and became home to hundreds of European immigrants who settled here to work on the "hydro". The cottages became a popular tourist destination once the workers moved on as the region became known for some of the world's best fly fishing and now a piece of Tasmanian history is available for you to call your own.

One of around 20 cottages remaining, Cottage 4 has been updated with a new kitchen and bathroom, double glazed windows and new flooring throughout.

The three bedrooms are generous in size, the current owners have their 3rd bedroom set up as a home office as

Building Size : 89 sqm
Land Size : 1085 sqm
